DENY GUILT IN BRIBERY CHARGES

Maryland And Kentucky Representatives Come Forward And Enter Denial That They Are Ones Involved In Bribe

WILL ANSWER THE CHARGE

Demand Specific Charges, Saying They Are Prepared to Answer in Detail—Voluntary Statements Followed Adoption of Resolution

Washington, March 7.—(United Press).—Harassed by knowledge their names were being bandied about the halls of congress in sensational gossip, Representatives Frederick Zihlman, Maryland, and John Langley, Kentucky, today came forward with statements denying they were the "two congressmen" involved in evidence of bribery laid before a Chicago grand jury.

Both Zihlman and Langley demanded specific charges, saying they are prepared to answer in detail. Their voluntary statements followed adoption of a resolution calling on the department of justice to give the House the names of the two congressmen involved in the Chicago grand jury disclosures and charges against them.

The two congressmen admit they are being mentioned as those involved but deny they are involved.

Zihlman, a Republican from the sixth Maryland district, said: "I have heard from various sources that my name is being mentioned in connection with certain charges. I do not know specifically the nature of these charges. I have been guilty of no wrong-doing."

Langley, a Republican from the Tenth Kentucky district, said:

"I am told that my name has been mentioned in connection with charges growing out of the Chicago grand jury investigation. I know I have not accepted any money or done anything improper. I have no further statement to make unless specific charges are made."

Famous Edgewood Team Will Play Here At 8 This Evening

The famous Edgewood team of girls well known for their speed and skill will come here tonight to play the local girls' basketball team at eight o'clock. This game will decide whether or not the Charleroi girls will win the championship. For several years Edgewood has led the Pittsburgh district, and will be undoubtedly the hardest game the girls have played this year, or for many years. So far the local team has been beaten but once by a Pennsylvania team. When the girls went to Duquesne to play the return game with that team they were defeated by six points. But they had already defeated Duquesne by ten points on the home floor. Our girls were defeated in a pre-season game with Steubenville, but that game will not count against them in the race for the championship.

Edgewood has also been beaten twice; one of which defeats was by Duquesne at Duquesne. With two teams with such similar and splendid

BAND TO FURNISH THE PROGRAM

Charleroi folk who are acquainted with those furnishing the program, will doubtless "listen in."

JOE TAKES THE GIFTS AT ANY RATE

Uniontown, Pa., March 7.—(United Press).—Left at the church by his fiancée who eloped and married another man, Joseph Richards held his wedding reception as per schedule accepting many handsome gifts. Everybody had a good time except August Burnett, "best man," who objected there was no bride to see his new suit.

PLANS MADE FOR TUREEN SUPPER

The regular March meeting of the Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church met in the church Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance. Mrs. T. F. Lindsay, the president, presided during the business session. Plans were made for a tureen supper to be held in the church rooms April 2 at 6:30 p. m., after which the regular meeting will be held and will be in charge of Miss Roseetta Rodgers. Mrs. A. H. Bosson was leader for Wednesday afternoon's program and gave a reading, "Marilee Interprets Malachi" very effectively. Mrs. Nelson's devotions were well prepared and very impressive. Mrs. L. J. Mitchell spoke on "Stewardship," while Mrs. E. B. Payne gave "A Day After Christmas Letter." The society was entertained with a duet, "Beautiful Japan" given by Mrs. Bosson and Mrs. T. L. Pollock. The hostesses served luncheon at the close of the meeting. They were Mrs. T. L. Pollock, Miss Taggart, Mrs. A. H. Bosson, and Mrs. W. D. Pollock.

Important to each member of the society is the annual Thank offering, which will take place at the morning service next Sunday and Miss Julia Knox, corresponding secretary of the Philadelphia branch will be the speaker.

records, it promises to be a very close game. The teams appear to be very evenly matched, although Edgewood leads a little on account of having had championship teams for several years. It will be a hard fight to the last minute of play. Attempts are being made to secure Miss Mercer, a well known and competent referee, for the game. It is certain that she will be absolutely fair and impartial in her decisions because she has never refereed a game in which either of the contesting teams played. All in all, it will be the biggest game of the season.

Dick Conlon Is Given A Boxing Lesson

Tooted as the fight of the season, with some apprehension and doubt as to the outcome, Cuddy DeMarco gave Dick Conlon of Altoona a boxing lesson.

Conlon broke even in only one round—the third; the other nine were the Charleroi boy's by a wide margin.

It was the first meeting of the two boys, and after it was over, the supporters of Conlon said that he had an "off night." It was a clearcut victory for DeMarco, one which emphasized his boxing class and ring intuition and showed that Conlon is all right against certain type of fighters, but completely out of his class against a boxer who can outthink and outbox him as Cuddy did last night. The promoters of the Olympic club at McKeesport have been making strenuous effort to get somebody to "kick" DeMarco—and they seem to have a job of keeping on "gitting."

COMMITTEE IS SOLVING THE BIG RIDDLE

Washington, March 7.—(United Press).—The Senate Oil committee today began to tear away the veil of telegrams exchanged between E. B. McLean and his employees while McLean at Palm Beach was doing his utmost to avoid being put on the witness stand in the oil investigation.

Through Bennett, editor of McLean's newspaper, the Washington Post, the committee first learned that a person referred to in the telegrams as "Apples" was Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, who has proven the central figure in the oil scandal. Bennett said he did not know who "Peaches" and "Apricots," other persons referred to in the messages, were.

Referring to the new code messages read today, "Count" Bennett said he was sometimes referred to and his associates as the "Count" because he had been decorated by the King of Italy.

The Commuters' Please Many Last Evening

A number of Charleroi people, as well as a large representation from outlying towns, filled the High School auditorium last night to capacity in witnessing the fourth annual play of the Gothic Literary club, "The Commuters," a four-act comedy, which was splendidly produced under the capable supervision of James S. Russell. Each character was exactly suited to his role and the flawless manner in which everyone portrayed his part certainly evidenced the many and arduous rehearsals they had undergone. Comments, pleasing and complimentary, were heard throughout the audience during the entire evening and the play was indeed a pronounced success.

The story centered about Hetty and Larry Bice, a young and devoted

JURY WAS OUT FOR 46 HOURS

Pittsburgh, March 7.—(United Press).—After deliberating 46 hours, a jury trying Dennis M. Cosh, Home- stead policeman, for the slaying of John E. Ward, assistant Homestead Fire Chief, returned a verdict of voluntary manslaughter.

At the last borough election, Cosh, who was at that time a Homestead policeman, and Ward, captain of the fire department of that borough, were rival candidates for the office of Constable of the Second ward. When the votes were counted it was found that Ward led Cosh by six votes.

Cosh was not satisfied with the count, and went into court and asked for a recount of the ballots, which was granted. The result was that Ward gained two votes in the recount. Bad blood cropped out over the affair, and on the night of December 2 the two met in the police station, and after an argument, Cosh placed Ward under arrest and locked him up. He was released later in the night on a $100 forfeit.

At 2 o'clock in the morning of the same night, the two men met on the street in Homestead. Cosh was on duty, and it is claimed that Ward attacked him. When he started to ward Cosh, the officer pulled his revolver and warned Cosh to stop, and when Ward continued toward him, Cosh shot him in the groin.

Ward was taken to the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, where he died two weeks later. Before he died, Ward issued a letter to the citizens of Homestead in which he exonerated Cosh of all blame in the affair, stating that he was entirely at fault.

The case was given to the jury yesterday afternoon at 1:30, and when they failed to reach a verdict at 8 o'clock last night, they were locked up for the night.

Rev. Montgomery has been pastor of the Presbyterian church at Clarion for a period of six years, prior to his charge there he was spiritual advisor over flocks at Canton, O., and Derry, Pa., and comes here bearing the highest recommendations as to his christian character and ability. AGENTS FOR DOPE IN THE TOILS

Donora police Wednesday rounded up four colored men and a colored woman who gave their addresses as Pittsburgh, and who, it is opined, are dispensers of narcotics and agents of a dope ring operating in the Monongahela valley.

The suspects are being held in the Donora lockup, while a thorough investigation is being made. The leader of the gang, Howard L. Mongo, when searched, had in his possession a half ounce capsule of cocaine. He claimed he purchased this dope from a Pittsburgh jobber, paying $36 for the supply and that it was retailed at $2.00 per shot. Police in all towns in the valley are now on the alert for dope peddlers especially in the several mill towns where colored men from the South have been imported into this district. Recently a dope ring was unearthed in Uniontown and a number of peddlers from that district were arrested in Monessen when they were disposing of their product. There seems to be a growing demand for narcotics in the valley and dope peddlers are becoming common in the larger towns and law enforcement authorities are busy.

SPARKS IGNITE ROOF; DAMAGE OF $100 DONE

President Wilson Endorsed Principle Upon Which Mellon Rates Are Based

Washington, March 7.—The American Bankers League, with headquarters here, in a statement issued today points out that the principle upon which the Mellon rates are based was first submitted to Congress by Hon. Carter Glass when he was Secretary of the Treasury. The statement also calls attention to the fact that Secretary Glass recommended that the Mellon rates be based upon the principle of the Treasury Department. The subject underwent most searching investigation at the hands of the most experienced and capable experts in the service of the Government and a tax rate was recommended from the accumulated experience of the Government.

Judge J. Boyd Crumrine of the Orphans Court Hands Down An Adjudication, Involving An Important Question of Law

MATTER OF JOINT SAVINGS

Court Says Margaret Bailey Is Entitled to Savings In a Charleroi Bank, Descending From Estate of James R. Bailey, Her Brother

Judge J. Boyd Crumrine, of the orphan's court, has just handed down an adjudication, involving an important question of law, in the matter of exceptions to the accounts in the estate of James R. Bailey, late of East Pike Run township, and whether or not Margaret Bailey, a sister of the deceased, takes title to certain joint savings accounts in the Bank of Charleroi and Trust Company, of Charleroi.

The court dismisses the exceptions and decides that the title of the moneys in these accounts passes to the sister, Margaret Bailey, and that the fund is not subject to the transfer inheritance tax. It appears that this fund in question originated from a consideration received by James J. Bailey and Margaret Bailey, his sister, from the sale of a farm to which they held joint title. The proceeds of the sale were placed in a joint account. There was no written agreement between them that the fund was subject to the checks of both.

Commenting on the facts the court says: "The two parties were brother and sister. Both were of middle age or past, and unmarried. They lived together and were interested in a common enterprise, the operation of a farm. Together they owned other property which they sold by a joint deed. Each was next of kin to the other, and from the facts just recited each was the natural object of the other's bounty. Aside from the fiction which makes husband and wife tenants by entireties because in contemplation of the law they are one person, we have here a situation which in a practical way is as nearly that of husband and wife and tenants by entireties as any that can be conceived, and when the law conclusively implies the incidents of joint-tenancy to the relationship of husband and wife a similar presumption of intention here is certainly not far-fetched."

99.9 Per Cent Efficient

Constant vigilance goes hand in hand with safety on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Thousands of tests are made every month to insure the observance of signals and operating rules by the men in charge of trains. During the last half of 1923, 493,000 such tests were made.

Some of the situations covered by these tests are the observance of "stop" and "caution" signals, the proper display of signals, the observance of speed regulations and the proper flagging of trains. This system has been in effect on the Pennsylvania Railroad for many years. It is designed to cover not only every conceivable development in ordinary operating conditions but also surprise situations not usually encountered.

It is a splendid tribute to the efficiency and the high morale of Pennsylvania Railroad employees—and a source also of profound satisfaction to the traveling public—that the results of these tests show that the number of "failures" is relatively insignificant—the record over a long period of months showing a 99.9 per cent performance.

POOR NEEDS LACK STUDY

Philadelphia, March 7.—(United Press)—Every city government in the United States, as long as there are "partisan, corrupt and uninformed officials" must have a permanent body to look after the health of the community, according to Dr. Haven Emerson, prominent local physician.

"Amazing as it may sound," he said, "I believe it is true that up to the present time no official government of any city in the United States has studied the needs of the sick and poor, determined the amount and kind of provision for remedy and prevention required and carried through an adequate program accordingly."

married couple, who lived in Auburn, a suburb of New York City, which roles were taken by Miss Edna Welch and Prof. W. H. Clipman. Their domestic difficulties were much enjoyed and especially when Sammy Fletcher, the open cause of their disputes, appeared and enacted the role of peacemaker and in so doing convinced everyone in the audience connected with the household and also half the village. Loren R. Tope cleverly enacted this role. Miss Elva Majors presented the role of an admirable mother-in-law while Miss Margaret Berryman and William Johns were the typical newly married couple, who added much to the mirth of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Rolleston, who bored everyone with their little Bobby's precocious prattle, were well taken by Miss Margaret McDermott and Prof. Clarence Porter. Misses Edith Woodhall and Adah McCague, as Mrs. Applebee and Mrs. Shipman also commuted wives contributed much to the humorous situation. Carrie the maid, taken by Miss Florence Clark, was certainly the modern maid and her witty remarks were much enjoyed. Miss Mary Allison as Mrs. Julia Stickney Crane, was a woman of culture, whose theories did not seem to concern with the problems at stake. Barnes, the efficient and dutiful policeman, was played by Ernest Howard, while Mr. Applebee, another commuter of the village, was taken by Earl A. Nicholson.

During intermission, varying somewhat from the usual few minutes of waiting with nothing in particular to do, the audience was well entertained by four well-known local singers. Miss Irene Jones, Miss Adah McCague, Mrs. Blanche Toner and Walter Stroud. Miss "Billie" Christina, the pride of Bentleyville, was roundly applauded for her singing and dancing.

OPEN BREACH HAS ARRIVED

Philadelphia, March 7.—(United Press)—The open breach between Smadley D. Butler, director of public safety, and his political enemies here has arrived.

Thomas F. Watson, chairman of the Republican city committee, city treasurer and organization leader, has declared Philadelphia would be better off without Butler. Butler has come back with a stinging statement that not only will he not retire from his present post but that he will show politicians they cannot dabble in police affairs.

Mayor Kendrick declares he will support Butler and has told the politicians "to keep their hands off the director of public safety."

In response to Butler's appeal to the public to support him in his fight for law enforcement, churches and women's clubs are preparing to stage a parade of 500,000 persons to prove to Butler, Philadelphia is behind him in his fight against the politicians.

The controversy promises to be one of the most spectacular that has stirred officialdom here in years.

HAYES MAY BE MADE A CARDINAL

Rome, March 7.—(United Press).—We believe the appointment of Archbishop Hayes of New York to a cardinalship may be announced early in April, Vatican officials said today.

"His Holiness has for a long time contemplated the appointment of Archbishop Hayes and this would have been done at the last consistory had not King Alfonso of Spain abruptly requested larger recognition for South American clergy."

The Vatican authorities were speaking unofficially.

"As to the report concerning Archbishop Mundelein," it was added, "this probably is premature, although the west deserves a cardinal, if not at this consistory, then at the next one in December. Chicago may get her wish."

MAN'S MIND BLANK SINCE LAST JULY

Philadelphia, March 7.—(United Press)—Randolph N. Wilkinson of Huntington, W. Va., a freshman in the University of Pennsylvania, has forgotten everything that has happened since last July. His mind is a total blank regarding recent events. He does not recognize friends of recent months.

In suffering this strange attack, Wilkinson lost consciousness for a time and when revived thought he was in Minnesota, the scene of his activities of last July. He is apparently in good health and takes his attack as a joke.

Dorothy, the larger, was giving Junior a pummeling when a neighbor ran out to save Junior, who, however, was offering resistance. "My goodness!" she cried. "What are you children doing?" Dorothy looked up shyly through her long lashes, and replied sweetly: "Oh, we are just fighting."

AN OIL-STRICKEN CONGRESS.

The Boston Transcript, which is said to represent the views of Senator Lodge, thus depicts the situation at the national capital: "Veteran Washington observers can not recall the time when there has been so much uncertainty at the seat of government. Democrats and the insurgent Republicans are in stampede like the herds of buffalo which in times gone by swept over the Western plains. Veteran administration Republicans as well as the newer recruits are cowed, lowering their heads before the oncoming storm. They offer little resistance. Leadership for the moment at least is almost totally lacking. Although appreciating the absurdity of many of the charges, made for political effect, they show signs of flight only at intervals, their principal vocation in life apparently being to run daily to the White House to tell that calm and collected 'Vermonter boy' who got into the saddle when the general fell last August' that he must ask for the resignation of this or that official who at the moment happens to be under attack."

The Transcript expects this description so uncomplimentary to its side in the fight to be accepted as quite accurate, it ought to be ready with satisfactory answers to questions inevitably suggested by its showing. Why, for example, are the Democrats and insurgent Republicans standing "cowed" and spineless or turning to flee before the onrush? What brought about such amazing, such unparalleled conditions? The transcript should either have said so, or should be prepared to say more. Its explanation leaves much to be desired.

Among the ancient oil was highly prized and their writings seem to give it value equal to healing balm. Isaiah spoke of the "oil of joy" and the psalmist of the "oil of gladness." Plutarch noted that the pouring out of oil calmed even the raging sea, and he elder Pliny went so far as to assert that "everything is soothed by it." But in the American political field of 1924 oil, instead of soothing, disturbs, excites, and lets loose a deluge of words that in their effect of very remotely suggests the cooling flow of lava from an erupting volcano. Obviously there are more sorts of oil than one and one particular kind that in its manipulation does not always involve benign service either to the individual or the public at large.

Senator Walsh of Montana makes a grave charge when he says: "We are in the Department of Justice a Bureau of Investigation headed by the greatest sleuth since Sherlock Holmes. Up to this time I have never received from that bureau one suggestion to aid me in this inquiry. I have never received from it the name of one witness or a single fact but would aid in the investigation. The same is true of the bureau in the War, Navy, Treasury and Post-office Departments."

Dr. Georgina Strickland Gates, psychology instructor, finds, after exhaustive investigation, that the girls at Barnard College "get mad" or all sorts of reasons, not alone for insult or real injury, but for the receipt of unasked advice, for not being invited to a party, for disinclination of hair to "stay up," etc., etc. It would appear that Barnard girls are good deal like other girls—and boys, and legions of grown-ups for that matter.

Sir Forbes Robertson, the distinguished English actor, says the mortal remains of Woodrow Wilson ought to lie in Westminster Abbey, the mausoleum of the Anglo-Saxon race of their great dead. He means well enough, and may not have heard that we now have the beginning of a Westminster Abbey in the new national cathedral at Washington.

Sensational Southern and New England
Success Brought Here by Local Druggists

New Remedy Declared Most Remarkable Discovery of Decade—"A Perfect Formula," Chemists Declare—Especially Valuable at This Time of the Year

AMAZING STORIES OF QUICK RECOVERY
FROM POOR HEALTH TOLD BY USERS

Manufacturers Show Complete Confidence in Product by Offering to Refund Money If It Does Not Give Perfect Satisfaction

ALL PERSONS IN POOR HEALTH SHOULD TRY IT

The Worcester, Mass., Gazette, a short time ago carried an article in which amazement was expressed at the number of people visiting a local drug store for the purpose of securing a medicine that was being extensively advertised at the time. The interviewed and his statement was one of the most remarkable made in regard to any medicine. He said, among other things: "We heard what this medicine was doing in other places; what wonderful results people taking it were getting. I promptly paid a nice premium for the privilege of selling it here. Results for users in just a few days were so remarkable that we tell any customer that if they are disappointed after giving this remedy a fair trial we will gladly refund every penny it cost them."

This most remarkable remedy had been introduced in the South before it was brought to Worcester. Its success there was so immediate and so sensational that this Worcester druggist was willing to pay a premium for the agency in his town. We have never heard of another medicine of which as much could be said.

The druggists of Charleroi have with their customary enterprise secured sales rights for this medicine, and are offering it to their trade with every confidence that it will duplicate here its success in other places.

This remedy, Sulac, is offered for the relief of stomach trouble, bilious, gassy or bloated spells; headaches, loss of sleep, appetite and weight. It cures the digestion, stirs up the appetite, enriches the blood and tones up the system. It is a combination of remedies compounded by the Southern Laboratories of Atlanta, Georgia, who certify to its absolute purity, and who make the same satisfaction or money back guarantee that the Worcester druggist spoke of.

In next column a graduate nurse of wide experience tells of her experience with Sulac. When any remedy will do the things this lady says Sulac did, it certainly is to the advantage of everyone suffering from any form of stomach or blood trouble to give it a thorough trial. This is especially true when you stop to consider that this nurse has had a wide experience with sickness and is in position to know what she is talking about.

When a medicine will take a person with ailments like those this nurse describes, or like Vernon W. Congdon describes in a statement two columns to the right of this, and have them eating, sleeping and feeling fine within a few days it doesn't take the news long to spread. News of similar occurrences spread from Atlanta, Georgia, to Worcester, Mass., and from there. And there will be many people in this vicinity who within the next month will be mighty thankful that the druggist of Charleroi were enterprising enough to bring this wonderful remedy to them.

Sulac is sold by Hennings Drug Store and other high class druggists.

She and Husband

"It Put Me Back on My Feet After Months Hardly Able to Walk"

THEY FOUND SULAC
FINE BLOOD REMEDY

"I happened to read in the Worcester

so many so I began using it too and it is wonderful as a builder and strength making tonic," declared Mrs. N. LaValles of Sandersonville. "I had used other remedies but nothing did me any good and I got so weak, bloodless and anaemic that I could hardly drag around the house or do my housework. Just felt lifeless day after day from morning until night. My blood was so impoverished I looked pale and worn and felt even worse, so you can imagine how surprised I was when Sulac in just a few days began restoring my color and giving me new strength. Each morning I got up feeling stronger until now after using it quite a while I feel like a younger woman and fine all over. My husband was so amazed the way it helped me that he started to take it and it has made a new man of him. We think it is wonderful," continues Mrs. LaValles. Hundreds of wives are insisting on their husbands using Sulac and giving it to the whole family. Scores of men are taking it home for the wife. It is so nice to take—works so quick—costs so little. See what a nurse says in article just below.

Graduate Nurse Endorses Sulac
Recommends for Her Own Sister

Results Remarkable—Sister Praises Sulac—Tells How It Benefited Her

Everyone in Worcester knows Miss Mary Toothaker, graduate nurse of Worcester City hospital, and at present the nurse at Green's Drug Store. This good little lady with a vast amount of experience, is familiar with all sorts of medicines. Recently Miss Toothaker had to make a trip to Texas, to accompany her sister home. Her sister, Mrs. Alberta R. Berry, has been a sufferer from poor health for the past ten years, and also has had constant trouble with her digestion and stomach. After the tireless journey during terribly hot weather all the way from Texas, Mrs. Berry arrived in Worcester in a depleted, nervous, weakened condition, so Miss Toothaker recommended that she try Sulac, which is winning so much praise here now. She had seen it work such wonders for friends and

Stomach Trouble
Vanished After Taking Sulac

Oxford Man, Bilious, Often Dizzy—Grew Weak, Sickly Stomach Upset Him

NOW EATS HEARTY AND FEELS LIKE NEW MAN

"This new and wonderful medicine called Sulac has been a Godsend to me," writes Vernon W. Congdon, a well known painting contractor of Oxford.

"I was so run-down, weak and sickly and my stomach was so easily upset I hardly dared eat anything solid. My stomach would burn, gas would form and I would belch and be uncomfortable for hours. Dizzy spells, spots before my eyes and an awful weakness would overtake me right in the midst of my work. Some say a painter is apt to have stomach trouble because of smelling paint all day. Anyhow, I was in fearful shape. I hardly dared work at times, but I've taken three bottles of Sulac now and I work all day long and come home still full of strength and energy. I eat three of the biggest meals you ever saw each day and food digests like clockwork. My stomach is made of cast iron.

"I've got lots of color—weigh about 190 lbs. and feel better and look better than I have in ten years. Anybody suffering from any form of stomach trouble can get the same results I did," declared Mr. Congdon. Sulac revives the digestion, stirs up the appetite, enriches the blood and tones up the whole system in a remarkable manner. Go to your druggist today and get a bottle of Sulac. You will find it the best investment you ever made.

Mrs. A. E. Sickman, at her North Charleroi home yesterday afternoon, entertained a few of her friends with a ma jongg party. The living room and dining room of the home were appropriately decorated with Japanese lanterns and the like, making a pretty scene for the occasion. There were two tables in play, Mrs. I. E. Roland, of Elizabeth, Mrs. Arthur Miksch and Mrs. V. P. Vieslet receiving the favors. With the conclusion of the games, Mrs. Sickman served dinner, consisting of dishes cooked after the Chinese plan, and appointments were carried out in accordance with the occasion.

Miss Margaret Armbruster of Oakland avenue was hostess last evening to the members of the Anna Kuglar class of Christ Lutheran church. The meeting was opened with scripture reading, followed by a business session, at which time final arrangements were made to purchase new song books and present them to the Sunday school, March 16. It was also decided to hold a bake sale Saturday, March 29, the proceeds to be given toward the debt fund of the church. A very enjoyable time was spent in music, followed by the serving of dainty refreshments by Mrs. Armbruster, assisted by the Misses Garnet and Merle Armbruster. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Hilda Affletranger of Shady avenue.

The Ladies' Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church met yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Sabbath school room of the church. The president, Mrs. Edwin McFar, presided while the devotions were in charge of Mrs. S. C. Speers, taking "Power of Prayer" as the topic, and asking each one present to tarry at Jerusalem for reconsecration. The topic for the afternoon's lesson, "Creative Forces in Japan, Challenge of Today and Tomorrow," was discussed by Mrs. J. D. Whitehead and her assistants, Mrs. Bradley and Mrs. Thornberg. Following the discussion of the lesson, Mrs. Whitehead spoke of the reminiscence of the work of her father and mother, who for many years were missionaries to Japan. The hostesses for the day were Mrs. Gilbert Mills, Mrs. Charles Culler, Mrs. Omer Fox and Mrs. F. Craft.

WHITE HOUSE SCENE OF EXCITEMENT

Washington, March 7. — (United Press).—Sensational disclosures that President Coolidge sent personal, friendly telegrams to Edward B. McLean during the latter's recent visit left the White House today the center of excited interest as the Senate committee continued perusal of telegrams and examination of witnesses.

Repercussions of the committee findings were crashing through the committee itself, the Senate and up and down the rank and file of both old parties as charges of partisanship were flung back and forth.

The Teapot Dome committee was plunged into dissension over indications President Coolidge had been "tipped off" in advance about messages concerning him.

Investigators were so aroused they threatened to carry the matter to the floor of the Senate, or summon witnesses to ascertain if evidence of a "leak" in the committee proved true.

The committee knows that Senators outside the investigating committee received information on what transpired in the executive session of the committee Wednesday. They believe the Senators went to Mr. Coolidge and informed him that his name had been found on telegrams to McLean, so that he could prepare statements regarding his motives for the telegrams.

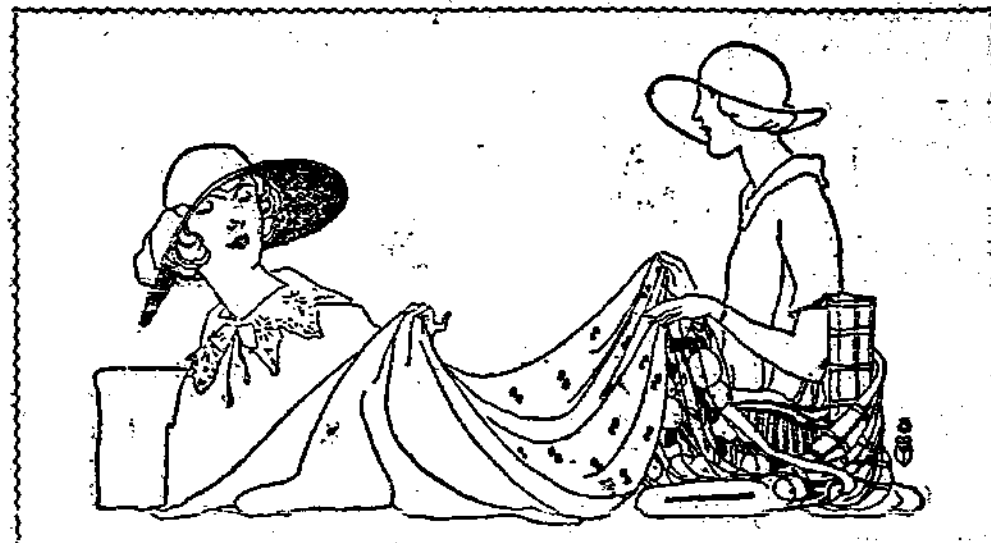

Coincidentally the committee took new steps to trace down the identity of "the principal" mentioned in a message as assuring McLean that there would be "no resignation," no "rocking of the boat."

EASY TRICKS

No. 148

The Floating Chair

You have seen the magician on the stage rub his hand on the seat of an ordinary chair, pretend to magnetize it and prove to his own satisfaction, at any rate, that the hand possessed a magnetic attraction for the furniture. When he lifted his hand the chair clung to it and he was able to swing it around in the air. You can do this trick yourself if you will make a very simple piece of apparatus. Obtain an imitation gold ring for a few cents and file a notch in it something like the illustration. Drive a tack part way into the seat of a chair which has a wooden bottom. A bit of wire is bent to cause the mark made by the tack will be less noticeable than on a highly polished piece of furniture. Put the ring on one of the fingers of your right hand with the notch toward the tip of your finger and on the inside of the hand. When you rub your hand on the chair catch the tack with the ring, the notch enabling you to hold it firmly. You can do this with the chair and swing it about but keep the hand flat against the chair. At the conclusion of the trick take the chair in your left hand and lift the right hand, taking the tack with the ring. The chair may now be examined as the hole made by the tack will not be noticed. In the smaller illustration, the chair and tack are not in proportion. The artist made it this way so that you may see where the tack is placed. (Clip this out and paste it, with either of the series, in a scrapbook.)

The Alligator Gar.

The great gar (Litholepis or Leisosteus (aristaeus)) of the rivers of Southern United States, Cuba, Mexico, and Central America is known as the alligator gar. It is greenish in color and sometimes reaches a length of 20 feet. Its flesh is worthless as food; its scaly armor often turns a spear or even shot. While it is able to breathe air to a certain extent, yet it soon dies in foul water.

Pine Tree Pollen.

Yellow rain in the Yukon territory and red snow in Greenland with a peculiar fine yellow deposit, are usually found to be caused by the pollen of pine trees growing miles distant. The pollen is caught by the winds, carried away and then dropped. The red snow is "made" by wind-placed deposits of minute vegetable organisms, bits of seaweed which contain red spots.

New Franklinite Deposit.

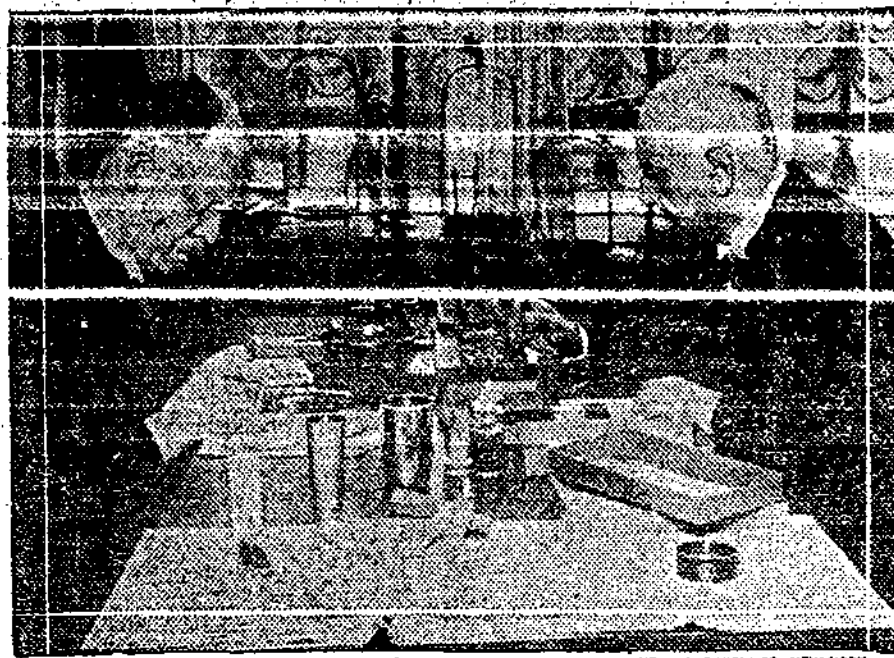

An important discovery has recently been made in New Zealand in the Lord country of Southland. A deposit of franklinite, the zinc ore, which is the same ore that is mined in large quantities in New Jersey, has been identified by government officials.

Two Good Rules.

There are two good rules which ought to be written on every heart. Never believe anything bad about anybody unless you positively know it is true; never tell even that, unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary, and that God is listening while you tell it.—Henry Van Dyke.

Why Lemon?

By carefully arranging utensils and supplies to eliminate extra steps and motions, experiments at the University of Washington have demonstrated that a housewife can cut nearly 11 minutes from the time ordinarily taken to make a lemon pie.

FIRST MUNICIPAL GOLD SALE BUREAU IN GERMANY

Due to the scarcity of moneys in Germany the middle class is selling its gold, silver and precious jewels. To prevent an unscrupulous dealer from cheating them out of just prices for the articles an Appraisal Bureau has been started in Berlin by the Government, where expert jewelers give free appraisals. They themselves receive no salary, working gratis.

Many Charleroi Folks Are Showing How to Avoid Needless Suffering.

There's nothing more annoying than kidney weakness or inability to properly control the kidney secretions. Geo. Gunderman, 303 Washington Ave., says: "I had an attack of kidney disorder and my back was lame and sore. When I bent, sharp darting pains ran through my kidneys. After sitting I could hardly get up. My muscles were stiff and sore mornings and my back was lame and weak. Doan's Pills from Piper's Pharmacy cured me completely and I haven't been troubled since."

Countess Introduced

Quinine Into Spain

Quinine is obtained from the powdered bark of the cinchona tree. Early in the Seventeenth century the countess of Cuncun and her husband went to live at Lima, in Peru, the count having been appointed viceroy. In one of the provinces grew a tree the bark of which was said to cure fever. The governor of the province, hearing some years later that the countess had contracted the dread disease, sent her a parcel of the bark. It cured her and later, on returning to Spain, she took with her quantities of the drug. In spite of prejudice, its use became popular. The trees from which it was obtained were gradually being used up and the drug became expensive.

In 1800 Sir Clement Markham organized an expedition to Peru to collect plants of the cinchona with the idea of introducing their culture into India, where it was thought they would grow well and where the use of the drug would be beneficial in view of the climatic conditions being so conducive to fever.

Although the plants died on the way to India, the seeds survived and now there are flourishing plantations in Africa.—London Tit-Bits.

Books of Ancient Roman Writers Not Protected

No law of copyright protected the interests of authors; and when the works of Cicero, produced by experienced copyists whom Atticus had purchased, were circulated in Italy and Greece, there was nothing to prevent an enterprising tradesman from employing his own slaves to pirate, with gross blunders, the authorized edition. The booksellers' shops were situated mainly in a street called the Argiletum, which abutted on the north of the Forum, not far from the Rostra. The books were written on papyrus imported from Alexandria, and were mounted on wooden rollers. The titles of new publications were posted upon pillars outside the shops; but their best advertisement, apart from the reputation of the writer, was the praise of his friends, when their judgment was known to be sound. Their prices, considering that they were produced by hand, seem remarkably low; handsome copies of the first book of Virgil's epigrams were sold for five denarii—about four shillings—a charge which the author thought excessive.—T. Rice Holmes, in "The Roman Republic and the Founder of the Empire."

Wall Street Coffee Center

"Wall street" is regarded the world over as a synonym of "high finance"; yet it has been quite as permanently associated in its history with coffee. The lower part of the street toward the East river, and the neighborhood adjoining to the north and south, but principally to the south, is still redolently given over to the offices and warehouses of coffee merchants and brokers.

William B. Ukers, in his book, "All About Coffee," recently published by the Tea and Coffee Trade Journal, devotes an interesting chapter to the history of coffee trade in the United States, much of which centers in this small but influential locality. It is surprising to find how many of the best-known merchants of the city engaged at one time or another in the coffee trade.—Detroit News.

Wood Duck Leads in Beauty

No duck in America surpasses the wood duck for beauty and variety of color. It loves warm weather and precedes even the teal in its migration to the southland. The female will occupy the discarded nest of any bird in a hollow tree or make a new one in any suitable place near the water. She often returns to the same nest year after year.

The hole which admits her to the nest appears many times too small for a bird of half her diameter, but she enters with ease. When the ducklings are ready to swim they jump instinctively into the water; if the nest be above it, but if it be some distance from the water, she carries them to it in her bill.—Detroit News.

Always a Gamble

The uncertainty of the cotton market is illustrated by the following conversation overheard between two negroes in a Texas town:

George (displaying a roll of bills).—See here, Sam, Ah's been on de bound dis mornin'.

Sam.—Ah sees. But you won't have it tomorrow! You can't never tell about dis cotton market. It's liable to go up, or it's liable to do down, or it's liable to fluctuate!—Outlook Magazine.

The Egoist

A couple of clubmen were speaking of a fellow member when one remarked:

"I dislike to say it, but really Reginald is the most egotistical young man I have ever met."

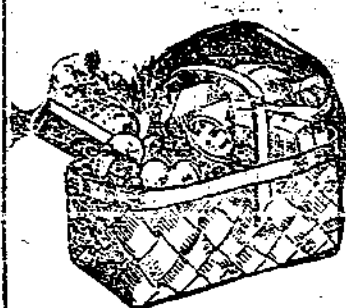

"What leads you to say that?" "Why, last week on the occasion of his birthday he sent a collect message congratulating his mother."

Half The People Have "No Sense" Says A Professor

Pittsburgh, March 7.—(United Press)—"There is just enough truth in them to make them worse than false," Dr. Max Schoen, professor of psychology at Carnegie Institute of Technology replied when asked if percentages arrived at in army intelligence tests made during the war could be applied to the populace in general.

Dr. Schoen's statement was prompted by statistics revealing, according to army intelligence figures, that only about five per cent of the population of the United States possessed a "great deal" of sense; 50 per cent had little to middling sense, and 45 per cent had "no sense at all."

The statistics were compiled by a few psychologists who claim every American belongs to either one class or another, Dr. Schoen explained. Misunderstanding and misinterpretation predominate in popular discussions on intelligence tests," Schoen said. "There are misunderstandings of the nature and function of tests and misinterpretations of the nature and function of tests in misinterpretations of results."

"These miscarriages of results often result from the subjects taking the tests in a humorous light and answering with levity some question that is really intended to bring out a natural reaction."

Still Dr. Schoen does not infer that because a series of questions are answered by a man, the examiner can tell whether the fellow is going to end in the poor house or in a palace. He does maintain, however, that the intelligence tests bring about certain measurements of intellect and intelligence.

"Intelligence involves several factors," Schoen said, "the ease and rapidity with which a person learns, how well he retains that which he has learned and the degree to which he can utilize that knowledge in meeting new situations."

JAPAN'S RECORD FISH CATCH

Haul for 1921 Amounted to 1,755,965 Long Tons—Used for Table and as Fertilizer.

The waters surrounding Japan and to the north constitute one of the three greatest fishing areas of the Northern hemisphere, and, consequently, the people have a plentiful supply of fish, which almost entirely takes the place of meat. Without this abundance of fish so close at hand, it is doubtful if the Japanese empire would have attained the high state of development that it has reached today, since its limited area does not permit the raising of meat animals sufficient to feed even a fraction of the great population, says a report to the Department of Commerce.

Japan's fish catch during 1921 amounted to 1,755,965 long tons, 1,124,977 tons of which were for table, while the remainder was taken for the oil content and for fertilizer.

During the last few years meat has become quite popular among the wealthier Japanese, many of whom eat two or three "European" meals a week, but the cost of imported meat places it in the luxury class and restricts its use to a comparatively small number. The increased earning power of the people, however, is making it possible for them to indulge in more and more luxuries and, in time, meat may be regarded as a necessary part of the diet.

WANTED TO BE ACCURATE

Tennyson Corrects Error He Made While on First Train From Liverpool to Manchester.

It was Jack Kemble who in 1833 warned Alfred Tennyson that "he had a touch of mathematics in him"; and readers of the Eversley edition of his works realize from the copious notes that was the laureate's obsession for accuracy.

Harold Nicholson in his brilliant book on "Tennyson," records one delicious instance of Mr. Tennyson's habit. "In the first 'Locksley Hall,'" he writes, "he had indulged in the following simile:

Let the great world spin forever down
The ringing grooves of change.

"Most people would have left it at that. Not so Tennyson. The inspiration of the verse had been drawn from a railway engine and had been rendered inaccurately; for it appears that railway engines do not, as he had at first supposed, run in grooves. So he confesses his mistake in a note:

"When I went by the first train from Liverpool to Manchester (1830) I thought that the wheels ran in a groove. It was a black night and there was such a vast crowd round the train at the station that we could not see the wheels. Then I made this line."—Detroit News.

SPORTS WRITER

CALLS DEMARCO GREAT FIGHTER

Richard T. Waller, art director, of the Baltimore News, encloses a few excerpts from Roger Peppins, sporting editor of the News, culled from Peppins' "Believe It or Not" column. Peppins, incidentally, being the leading sporting writer of all on Baltimore newspaper staffs:

"Cuddy DeMarco has a wonderful left. He can do many things with it. For instance, he has a trick of catching the other fellow by the nape of the neck and pulling him around the ring while that long right of his seeks to land the haymaker.

"He can jab unmercifully with the left arm, much as a football runner straight arm, as a tackler. He sticks it into the face of the other fellow and holds it there. His arm is long, and the other fellow swings in vain.

"DeMarco has wonderful footwork, and can fight off the ropes, though once last night during one of those fierce Mexican offenses, he had trouble getting away from the ropes. Garcia was smothering him with a furious attack."

"The Pittsburgh boy has trained with Greb, and knows his stuff. In fact, he appears more perfect with the Greb tactics than the author of the famous Pittsburgh style of milling."

"Had Johnny Dundee been a spectator, he wouldn't have been comforted by the showing of either man. DeMarco might give him a terrific struggle for the junior lightweight crown. DeMarco wouldn't do much as a featherweight."

"And Garcia, fighting as he did last night, would be dangerous against any opponent within a reasonable poundage."

"Either one of these lads is a prospect for better things."

Commenting on the fight, further the News says:

"Cuddy DeMarco, of Charleroi, Pa., was good to Bob Garcia, of the Third Corps Area, at the Fourth Regiment Armory last night.

"Without exerting himself more than was absolutely necessary, Cuddy won eased up from the soldier fighter. In spots, the artful of the ring from Pennsylvania, would flash a spurt which would engulf the bewildered Garcia in a storm of gloves."

"In the sixth round, by actual count, Cuddy southpawed Garcia 15 times in the wind and poked him with three rights in the face. Bob, for all the world like a clothing store dummy, stood receiving. This was naturally DeMarco's best round, and naturally, Garcia's worst."

"For aggressiveness alone, Bob deserves some consideration. He was willing and anxious most of the time to fight. Barring his catching act in the sixth and another brief moment when he wailed 'foul' after a severe shot in the wind, he was the hustling, two-handed little boxer who has made many friends for himself. He was anxious to go, but found fighting a shadow something not in ring lore."

"Judges and others to the contrary, Garcia was beaten. He was outpointed. He was outgeneraled. He was given a lesson in clean fighting. He was outgamed. In three things—butting, fouling, heeling—Garcia was far out front."

As to scoring, DeMarco had seven rounds, Garcia three, and two were even."

"Garcia has an aggressive manager, too. Immediately after the referee announced a draw, Jimmy Bronson jumped across the ring, seized the scoring blanks of the judges and the referee from the hands of Inspector Schuchman, yelled out that he had been given a raw deal, and waved the slips in the face of the audience. The boxing commission took this slap in the face without a murmur."
